You've only just begun

To man, the stars have always been a symbol of great hopes and high ideals. Often they are used in mottoes and as expressions of hope. "Reach for the stars" is an often-used expression that means a person should set high ideals and work to reach them.

The high school years are a time for setting goals. Every day, each student works towards his aspirations. For some, this may mean just surviving school until graduation. Others want to make straight A's, excell in sports, be popular and get accepted to an Ivy League school. Everyone has a different ambition, a different dream. Some of these may be fulfilled and some may not. However, we can look forward to tomorrow with great expectations of an opportunity and a challenge to build the rest of our lives. You're only just begun. Set your goals high and Reach For The Stars.

Inflation hits home

The rise in prices of many goods brought home to students the problem of inflation. Prices have risen 8-10 percent each year, although many salaries have not. It has required people to learn to manage their money wisely.

Business courses helped students to budget their income and introduced them to many jobs in the business field. Courses such as typing, shorthand, recordkeeping, accounting, office practice, business law and consumer economics were offered.

Class projects familiarized students with obligations that business offices have to the public.

Aspects of art explored

A variety of art courses were offered to students at Topeka West. Besides art exploration, a prerequisite to all other art courses, students could take design, ceramics, jewelry, drawing, opaque painting, and textile design. Students tried their hand at various projects ranging from silk-screening to setting a stone in a ring or a bracelet.

Joining returning teachers Royce Fleming, Mrs. Barbara Parks and Mrs. Gretta Anderson was Ass't Prin. Jack Taylor, who taught one section of art exploration.

Students face issues

The Begin-Sadat-Carter summit, the tax revolt, and the general election — those and other events helped students to understand the nation's government and learn to function as better citizens.

Some government students interviewed candidates for election, including John Carlin for governor, Mrs. Joan Finney for state treasurer, and J.B. Littlejohn for state representative. They also made slide-tapes and discussed the candidates' views.

Printed materials, oral reports, class discussion, and films also aided in the teaching of these courses.

Some seniors earned college credits through the department's advanced placement course.

Other classes offered in social studies were: American and world history, psychology, economics, human relations, law education and Kansas history.

Staff reveals final product

Creating a yearbook that students can relate to was the goal of yearbook Co-Editors Rhonda Carter and Judy Klein, '79, when they selected 'reach for the stars' as the theme for the 1979 Chevalier.

"We've tried to represent the students in this school as we see them. reaching for their goals and dreams," Rhonda said.

Two of the events which both the yearbook and newspaper staffs participated in was the Kansas Scholastic Press Association's Regional Journalism Contest in Manhattan and the State Journalism Contest in Lawrence.

"The staff has been really cooperative Judy said. "You have to have a lot of independence and willpower to be in this class."

Students participate in convention held in St. Louis

Informing students and parents on school happenings as well as reporting athletic and scholastic achievements were the main objectives of the 1978-79 Campus View staff.

"We have a really good staff. They've worked hard and have done a good job," first semester Co-Editor Carrie Wagaman said.

A special event for both the Chevalier and the Campus View staffs was the National Journalism Education Association convention November 9-11 in St. Louis. Eight students participated in events that included lectures, seminars and a journalism contest, along with sightseeing and a disco dance.

Three teachers added to language arts department

Earning the required credits for language arts was not difficult, considering there were 31 courses to choose from. Two credits had to be communication products, and two were the student's choice. Composition 1 and speech arts were also required.

Some courses offered were humanities, creative writing, mythology, discussion, debate, science fiction, acting, grammar, world literature and mass media.

Besides offering the most courses, the department also had the most teachers, 15. Three new teachers joined the staff. Miss Beverly Bernardi taught Composition 2, creative writing and English experiences. Tom Mitchell taught Composition 2, science fiction and English experiences. Les Kuhns taught forensics, Composition 2, U.S. literature and debate.

Languages great asset

With inter-continental travel being commonplace in today's Space Age, the ability to speak a foreign language fluently would be a great asset. Jobs in government service and air travel are also open to those who speak foreign languages.

In Spanish, French, Latin and German classes, students learned by speaking, reading, writing, singing, dancing, cooking foreign foods and other activities.

Spanish students participated in a contest in Wichita where they were judged for their ability to pronounce letters and words. French students took an imaginary trip to France, speaking only French while buying plane tickets, getting passports and exchanging American money for francs.

Today students appreciate physical world more

Two semesters of science were required to graduate from Topeka West. With nine different courses offered, students had no difficulty finding a class that interested them. Classes included botany, chemistry, biology, physiology, physics, photography, astronomy and human ecology.

The general objective of the seven science teachers was to have the students appreciate the physical world around them more. To accomplish this goal, teachers planned field trips to KP&L in Lawrence, Kansas State University and other places of interest. They also had various projects for the students to do, such as making a terrarium in Dr. Robert Benortham's applied botany classes.

Masterminds utilize math skills in today's society

A new emphasis has been placed on jobs in space technology, business records and computer programming, which utilize mathematics skills common in today's society. In the Mathematics Department, games such as Mastermind, Othello and Twixt were used to learn and apply math to everyday life. Competition in contests such as Washburn University math contest and the National math contest were entered by students.

Courses offered were: algebra, analysis, applied math, trigonometry, business math, geometry, elementary functions and computations skills. Honors courses were offered for advanced students in geometry, algebra and trigonometry.

TOP: Student teacher Meridith Heinen helps Wendie Deal, '80, with a problem in Mr. Parks' intermediate algebra-trigonometry class.

Debate team takes state

For Les Kuhns, his first year as coach of the debate squad brought quite a surprise — first place at the Class 6A State Tournament at Kansas State University on Jan. 25 and 26. The 6-1 record of the negative team of Tom Akins, '79, and Andy Welch, '80, and the 5-2 record of the affirmative team of Mark Lynch, '79, and Joe Weissbeck, '79, led to the combined 11-3 record which captured the victory at State.

But debate wasn't all work and no play as was demonstrated on March 16, when the debaters took on the disc jockeys of V-100 in a fund-raising basketball game.

Reaching goals such as the Olympics, Wimbledon, the NFL or the NBA are not impossible dreams, but it takes a lot of work to get there. Not everyone will be an Olympic star, but anyone can keep himself in good physical shape.

P.E. classes offered activities such as archery, tennis, weight training, volleyball and aerobics. Mrs. Peggy Marmet from Washburn University and Jerry Wright produced a slide-tape program designed to help concepts students learn how their bodies function and the importance of keeping them physically fit. Concepts classes worked on lab activities which allowed students to know what to do to improve their fitness.

Other P.E. teachers were Mrs. Susan Affolter, Ron Stull, Frank Walton and Mrs. Cindy Medill.

Even though most students took P.E. as a requirement, their loudest complaint was about the "gross, grubby, abused" blue gym suits the girls were forced to wear.

Different food customs and cultures taught in home ec.

Home economics offered a wide selection of courses designed to benefit both boys and girls in later life. Some of the things students learned were the food customs and cultures of different regions of the United States, as well as the varying lifestyles among the people, the stages of development that all children go through, the principles of design, which they incorporated into individual design projects, and how to help each other with their problems.

Some of the courses offered were PEER group dynamics, Clothing 1-2, Foods 1-2, parenthood education, child development, home decoration and international foods.

PEER group dynamics was a second-year based on the idea that students seek help from other students when they have a problem, and that students know when other students need help. Training sessions focused on self-awareness activities, communication skills, and goal setting, as well as other things important in developing relationships with other people. One of the projects PEER members did was meeting with students new to West.

TOP: Unsure about testing the food in home economics is Barbara Montgomery, '80. ABOVE: Giving support to a small girl while watching other children play is Vicki Streff, '79.

Instructor familiarizes class in carpentry skills

In this day and age, paying for car repairs or the building of a house can be very expensive. Even paying for a jewelry box or a table can cost a considerable amount.

Industrial arts classes helped students avoid some of these costs of modern living by teaching them how to run machines used for building and by informing them about the mechanics of a car.

Electronics, mechanical drawing, metals, woodworking and auto information were the industrial arts classes offered. While students in mechanical drawing were working on floor plans, students in woodworking were building jewelry boxes as a requirement for the course.

Industrial arts teachers were Dan Inman, Cecil Wichert and David Rondash.

Kids' dreams are fulfilled

To get the license to fulfill every kid's dream of driving a car, 10 sections of driver education were offered. About 320 students acquired their licenses with the help of teachers Jack Wiley and Mike Jamison. Mr. Wiley said there were more sophomores this year than there have been in the past. The cars they drove were mid-sized Chevrolets and Pontiacs donated to the school by Kent Brown Chevrolet and Dale Sharp Pontiac. To get a license, the students had to have a minimum of 3 hours behind the wheel, 12 hours simulation and 30 hours class time. The remaining time was spent in the student center. Driving each car about 3,000 miles before trading it in, students drove four or five different cars during the year. Some students got discounts of up to 20 percent on their car insurance if they passed the class.

Achievement is their goal

"We're here to help students help themselves," pointed out Mrs. Janet Lobel, Learning Resource Center. Her goal as teacher was to help students not with emotional, physical, or cultural problems, but those having difficulty achieving regular classroom studies. Some of the most common problems shared by her students were reading, writing, spelling and math skills. To help the kids with these problems, Mrs. Lobel started at the base knowledge of the individual or group. The kids she worked with had to have an average to above average intelligence. Classes ranged in sizes of four to eight students, and they all received academic credit.

Chargers go off to work

The Work Experience Program and the Teacher Aide Program were provided for those students wanting experience and school credit. More than 75 students held jobs ranging from a delivery person, to a bank clerk, to a woodcutter. More than four students worked as teacher aides in junior high and grade schools. The students were evaluated on a credit no-credit basis. Randol Walker, E School assistant principal, headed the program.

The Kaw Area Vocational-Technical School was open to anyone 16 and older. Twenty-one Chargers were among the approximately 1,200 students who attended day classes and the 1,100 who attended night classes. Twenty-six courses were offered in three- and five-hour days. The average job placement was 88 percent. The majority of the students were placed in a 30-mile radius from Topeka.

Teachers concentrate on classes dispite negotiations

Although many of the 75 teachers worked most of the school year without signed contracts and salary increases, they tried not to allow that and a year of trying negotiations to affect their classrooms.

In the fall, each department evaluated its course offerings, and later the teachers assisted National Honor Society members in a school-wide curriculum evaluation. Some teachers served on committees to plan for the arrival in 1980 of ninth graders, and others helped select new textbooks for their departments.

Two diversions teachers enjoyed were lunch-time badminton matches and several social events. These and other school activities helped to turn teachers' full attention back where they wanted it — with their students.

Office staffs do odd jobs

Selling tickets to all ball games and play productions, answering the telephone, and running the switchboard were just a few odd jobs performed by the A Office staff in addition to their other administrative duties. Each little school also had separate responsibilities.

The staff of B School was in charge of advanced placement, Vo-Tech, and Independent Study. C School's responsibilities included the Alternative Learning Program, scholarships, and Interim. The academic awards assembly and job placement were handled by D School. The staff of E School brought college representatives to campus and coordinated the Field Experience Program.

A new member to the E School staff was Randol Walker, assistant principal.

Trampled lawn regains life

Keeping the campus clean and in order, feeding a group of hungry students at lunch, tending to the sick, and maintaining the general security of the campus — what would we have done without the service staffs?

Under the direction of Frank West, head building operator, was a crew of 7 building operators, who managed to keep the campus clean and immaculate, despite the great odds against them.

New at West this year was Mrs. Maxine Horton, the cafeteria director. With her crew of 19, Mrs. Horton was able to get the crowd of students who ate in the cafeteria fed nutritiously.

On hand to help anyone who didn't feel well was the school nurse, Mrs. Lucy Hoyer. Al Twidwell returned as security guard, and "guard the security" he did.

Board faced tough year

The Board of Education in October moved into their new Administration building located at 624 W. 24th street.

New Board president Don Oden was forced with many tough situations. The Board was faced with a decrease in enrollment of 5 percent leaving the Topeka Public Schools with a budget decrease of over $1 million. In an effort to regain this lost money, the board went to the State Board of Tax Appeals, and approximately half the amount was restored.

Many Topeka teachers taught most of the year without a signed contract. Negotiations and log heated debates were heard between the Board, teachers and private citizens regarding the matter.

The Board changed it's meeting times from evenings to afternoons. Many felt this was a tactic to avoid appearances by the public. At 10 p.m., Feb. 28, the Board team and the teacher team agreed on a 2-year contract which gave the teachers a 7 percent increase for next year and a 7½ percent increase for the 80-81 school year.

The Board also faced an election year. Long time members Dr. Mark Morris and Richard Crawford chose not to throw their hats in the ring.

The tone seemed to settle down, but the Board still worked toward the construction of a new middle school, and the closing of some junior highs in event to move ninth graders into the senior high schools for the 80-81 school year.

Groups travel to State Music Festival at Shawnee Mission

The Vocal Music Department's four groups — the Charger Choir, Varsity Choir, Choraliers, and the Topeka West Singers — under the direction of Forrest Davidson, had many performances planned for the year. Audiences ranged from junior high school students to anyone who happened to be watching "Noon Day" with Nancy Perry in December, when the Singers appeared on the show.

A highlight of the different groups' efforts came on April 6 and 7, when they journeyed to Shawnee Mission East to compete in the annual State Music Festival.

'Cactus Flower' presented

On Oct. 6 and 7, the Topeka West Theater presented Abe Burrow's comedy "Cactus Flower," directed by Tom Mitchell. The play centered around Dr. Julian Winston and his girlfriend, Toni. When Toni wanted to meet the wife that Julian didn't have, the results were hilarious.

The 10-member cast was Sandy Stewart, Toni Simmons; Todd Huntley, Igor Sullivan; Kim Normanton, Stephanie Dickenson; Amy Goodell, Mrs. Dixon Durant; Kurt Schmidt, Dr. Julian Winston; Bruce Williamson, Harvey Greenfield; Neal Scoggin, Senor Arturp Sanchez; Don Leonard, Customer/Music Lover; Kelly Highfill, Boticelli's Springtime; Julie Janssen, Waitress.

Troupe creates theater piece

Under the direction of Tom Mitchell, the Topeka West Theater's December Acting Ensemble, which was organized this year as a touring troupe, created a "theater piece." It was based on a theme of changing which they performed for various area junior high schools and the general public. "I Used To Be A Pig, But Now I'm Fontessa" was created out of improvised situations, poetry and literature.

The 10-member cast was Lisa Cason, Kelly Highfill, Todd Huntley, Kim Normanton, Linda Norton, Marti Priest, Kurt Schmidt, Neal Scoggin, Steve Shipman and Tori Williams. Eric Tolbert was the lighting designer and Alicia Brownell the stage manager.

Oral History involved many

Oral History projects began in January and involved 21 students. The tape/slide productions were directed by Mike Printz, librarian.

The projects got their start in 1976 as a special Bicentennial Program. Ten histories were done that year and the same number were done this year. "The ideal of the project is to have students aware of our rich local heritage and be able to share what they know with the community," Mr. Printz said.

Topics this year included the Brookville Hotel, near Abilene; Little Russia, in North Topeka; The Grand Opera House, now the Grand Theater; the Menninger Foundation, and three ghost towns.

People covered were Bradbury Thompson, a top graphic artist of the United States; and Georgia Neese Gray, the first woman to be U.S. Treasurer. An event that was covered was the first automobile trip to Pike's Peak, using a Topeka- manufactured Great Smith automobile.

Topekans dreamt of sunny skies and warm sandy beaches

Many Topekans dreamt of sunny skies and warm, sandy beaches as they fought the bitter winter weather of '79. Approximately 30 inches of snow fell in the Topeka area, making the winter one of the worst in the history of the city. The city suffered 54 continuous days of snow cover.

The snow caused many inconveniences to residents of Topeka. Streets were congested with slow-moving traffic and numberous fender benders. The Board of Education closed down USD 501 schools Jan. 2, due to 11 inches of snow dumped on the city New Year's Eve.

The snow was not a disappointment for those who enjoy winter recreation. Many took advantage of the white stuff to get out and do some sledding at Quinton Heights Hill and ice skating at various ponds around the city — anything to rid them of cabin fever.

Time devoted to speaking

If competitive individual speaking and acting in several different areas sounded interesting at enrollment time, you probably enrolled in forensics. Students who enrolled in Les Kuhns' fifth hour forensics class second semester soon found out that forensics involved a lot more than just five hours of class per week. There were tournaments to attend on Saturdays and time to spend working on the various aspects of forensics. The different areas of forensics included original oration, dramatic interpretation, improvised duet acting, and informative speaking, to name a few.

Glass Apple caters music

Homecoming was a success, thanks to the expert planning of Student Council. Judging by the parade, the bonfire and the dance, students could tell their representatives were on their toes.

The bonfire started the whole thing off the evening of Oct. 26 with hot-dogs being served to the large crowd that attended. The next day at 9 a.m. the traditional parade was held. That evening the game against Salina Central was held at Moore Bowl.

At halftime the Charger band, drill team, cheerleaders and various school clubs helped crown the king and queen, Scott Mallory and Sarah Brass, '79. The team beat Salina Central a whopping 20 to 0.

A popular local band, Glass Apple, provided music for the dance which followed the game. The theme was Moonlight Serenade.

'Winter Dreams' theme for traditional Snow Ball

The traditional Snow Ball dance was held on Dec. 9 from 8-11:30 p.m. in the gym. The theme of this year's dance was "Winter Dreams," with the music provided by the band "Polite Force."

As traditional as the dance itself was the election of the king and queen.

On Nov. 14, each senior filled out a ballot nominating five boys and five girls for king and queen, from which the top five candidates for each were chosen. Voting took place on Dec. 7 and 8 in the gym lobby after school and in the cafeteria at lunch, with Kent Wallace and Debbie Hastings chosen Royalty.

Disappoint - ment forgotten

Although disappointed at being defeated by Lawrence in the basketball game, disappointment didn't last long for Paul Payne and Judy Werder when they were chosen King and Queen of Courts at halftime on Feb. 16. The six candidates — Anne Cleland, Laura Dungan, Judy Werder, Tom Akins, Marc Degenhardt, and Paul Payne — were nominated by the senior class and voted on by the entire student body.

The annual Queen of Courts dance was held following the game from 10 p.m. to midnight in the cafeteria, with entertainment provided by the band Evensong.

Council introduced new revision to smoking policy

Responding to numerous complaints from both students and faculty, Student Council introduced a revision to the smoking policy. In an attempt to move smokers away from the doorways, and thereby appease non-smokers, the Council placed "No Smoking" signs above one doorway on each little school, hoping for voluntary compliance. Evaluation of results was not released by StuCo.

The Council initiated a Grandparents' Day, but only a few students hosted their grandparents at the special program in their honor. Traditional dances, teacher evaluations and other projects occupied much of the Council's time and energy.

AFS promotes friendship

Lunch together each Tuesday in the classroom of sponsor Dave Alexander strengthened friendship and understanding among American Field Service members and students from other countries. The club planned a Colorado ski trip during Christmas vacation and sold holly and fruit cakes to raise funds for their activities. The annual Red Tag Sale allowed shoppers to purchase goods from participating merchants for a 10 percent discount, with AFS reaping a small profit. Most important of all their activities, however, were hosting the visiting students and planning for others for next year.

AFS students this year were: Francesca Mariotto, Italy; Kim Normanton, England; Silvia Iriondo, Guatemala; and Sodi Khatib-Shahidi, Iran.

Movies spur water show

Weekly practices beginning in September culminated in the annual Catalina Club water show in December. The synchronized swimming club developed the show, "Encore," around a variety of movies, including Disney movies, horror movies and musicals. Five club members served as choreographers and leaders of groups to develop routines.

BSU plans coordinated

In its second year, the Black Student Union, sometimes called Black Student Awareness, coordinated some activities with Topeka High and Highland Park. Together, they planned a trip to Lincoln University, a skating party and a BSU student exchange among the three high schools. The club sponsored a disco dance during the winter but was disappointed with the small attendance.

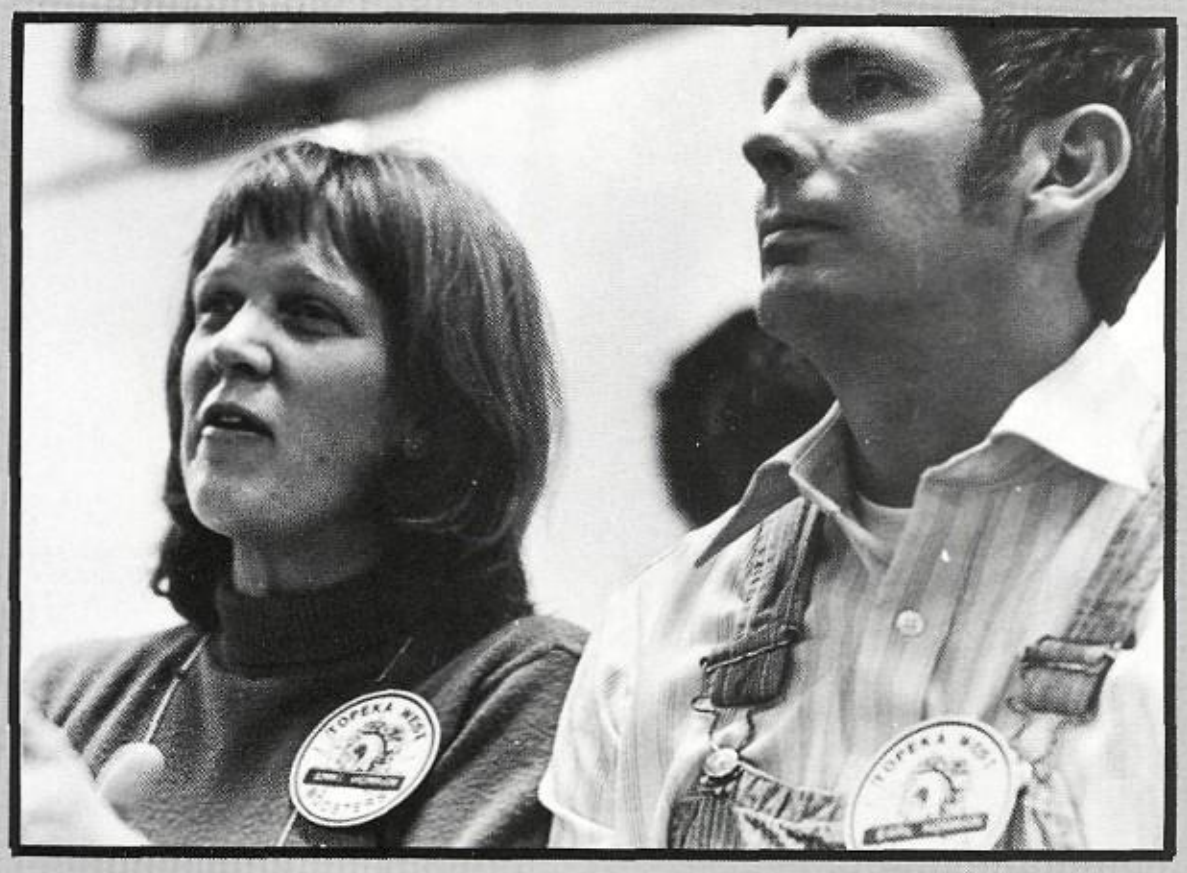
Club efforts get results

A constant tow of energy from 143 families of Charger students went into the operation of concession stands, rooting for athletic teams, selling program and program advertising, encouraging academic achievement, planning a yearbook signing party, and performing other tasks in support of students and staff.

The first result of their work was an earnings of about $5,000, which they used to buy equipment for all phases of school life. Another result was the knowledge that their hard work had helped to enrich school life for all Chargers.



Charger pride was evident as Boosters such as Mr. and Mrs. Homman wore their Topeka West Booster buttons at athletic contests. Some wore purple windbreakers.

Club promotes school spirit

If you wore purple to the game, you were probably considered a member of Charger Spirit. Purple and spirit were the only requirements for membership, according to Dave Umbarger, sponsor. No dues. No specific dress.

Building a solid, purple-clad membership was their first goal, and selling spirit shirts was their method. The club experimented with button-making, a log throwing contest, bicycle races and a bonfire for Homecoming Week. Their biggest project was to sponsor an area Spirit Club meeting in the fall, with Spirit Club developers from Chicago here to give ideas.

The crew who rang the Victory Bell at home football games was, CLOCKWISE: David Cole, Ted Young, Scott Souder, Chris Pierce, Blake Rolley, Mike Callison and Marti Schmid.

Spirit Club officers: Chaille Davis, president; Jane Logan, vice president; Julie Martin, secretary-treasurer. Miss Georgia Patterson was sponsor.

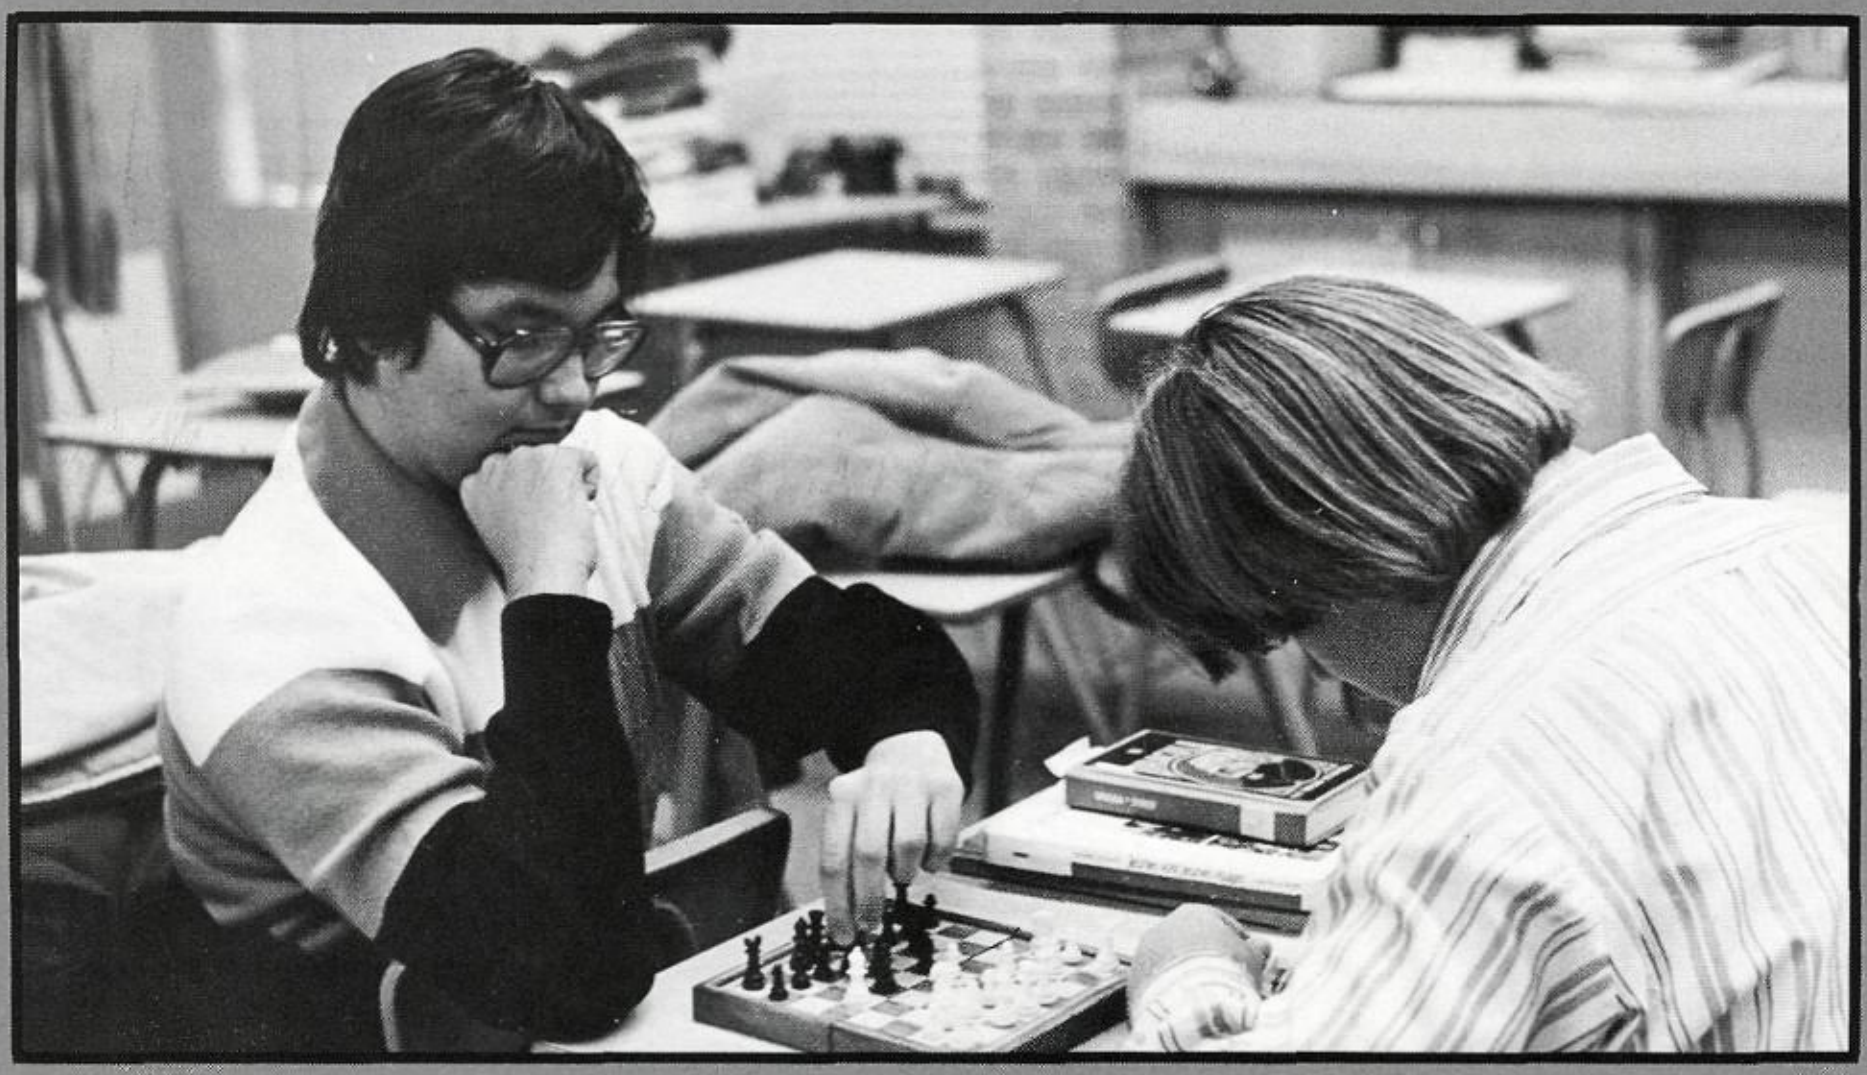
On a cold December evening, members of Spanish Club and French Club ventured out to offer Christmas carols. Spanish students visited the Oakland area, where their Mexican listeners enjoyed hearing Christmas music in Spanish. French Club walked through Westboro, singing carols in French.

The clubs co-sponsored the International Dinner in the fall for foreign language students. To help members get better acquainted and learn more about their languages, the clubs held a number of social and educational events. French Club planned a hayrack ride and participation in the Homecoming parade, while Spanish Club sold gobblegrams and planned a bake sale, along with their regular evening meetings.



Students aid their peers

A group of 24 PEER, guided by Mrs. Kathy Hund, had the best interests of their peers in mind as they worked in a program in only its second year. Positive Educational Experiences through Relationships were exactly what these selected students aimed to achieve as they listened to and talked with fellow students with problems. The program first trained participants in skills of communications, ethics, decision-making, goal-setting and role-playing before they went out to help others. Any student who would like to discuss a problem with someone at or near their own age was encouraged to ask Mrs. Hund or a counselor about talking to a PEER.

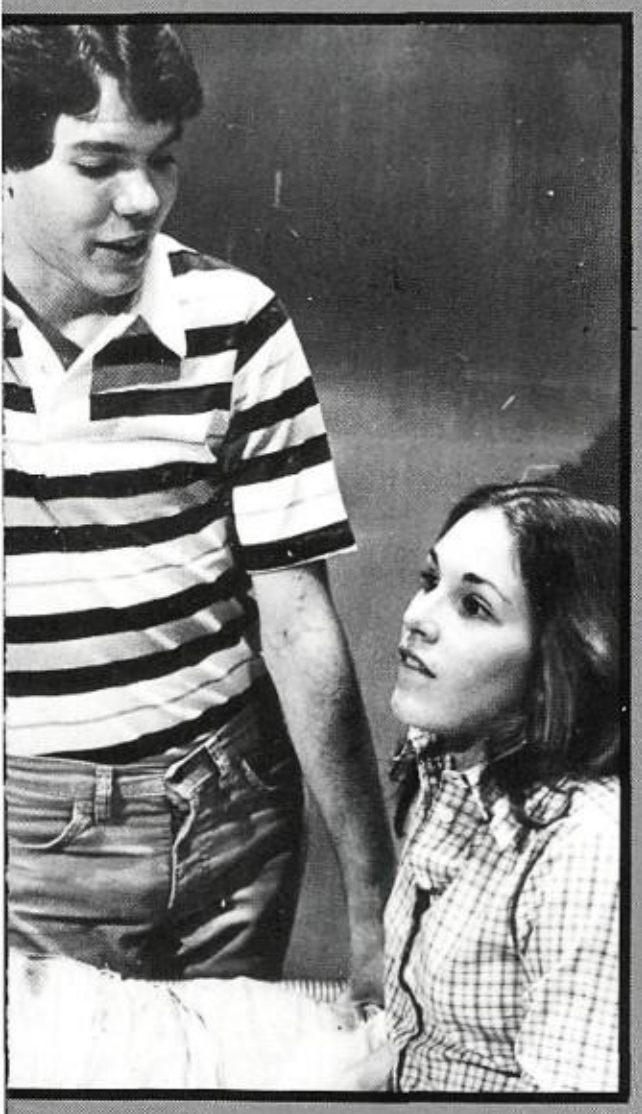
Test of wits

Sponsorship of Chess Club became a problem, with Marvin Speier leaving campus after his morning classes to teach at Topeka High for the remainder of the day. Even so, eager chess players were invited by Pres. Todd Wallace and Sec. Chuck Rhodes to match wits each Wednesday.

Advancing his queen's knight on the attack in a Chess Club match is Luis Sanchez, '81.

Thespians earned points toward membership through dramatics appearances. Todd Huntley and Sandy Stewart acted in "Cactus Flower."



Thespians 'earn' initiation

Sixteen dramatics performers went through Thespian initiation from Feb. 26 to March 2, wearing badges that shouted out, "Hi, I'm a Thespian initiate. Please ask me to recite 10 lines of Shakespeare." The week-long activities included a 6 a.m. breakfast, carrying a brick for a day, supplying candy to any greedy Charger who demanded it and fulfilling the needs of a scavenger hunt. The antics ended with a test over theater history and a formal initiation ceremony.

To earn the right to go through it all, prospective members collected points for their appearances in and work on Topeka West Theater productions. To become eligible, initiates must have earned at least 10 points in each of three categories of work. One of their productions was the Theater Piece, an ensemble of 10 performers who formed a touring company, directed by Tom Mitchell, who performed at area schools in December.

Welcoming visiting basketball teams was a pleasant duty for hostess Susan Maricott, '80.

Passenger and sponsor Mrs. Adabelle Haughawout accompanies club members in the Homecoming parade.

Hostess club adds service

Open membership was the policy of Host and Hostess Club, with members and others who liked to assist at school functions being invited to host. Sponsored by Mrs. Adabelle Haughawout, the organization performed the traditional task of ushering for performances in the auditorium, but an innovation took Hosts and Hostesses to the gymnasium to receive visiting administrators and teams. An idea borrowed from Harmon High School in Kansas City, it was intended to inform visitors about the school and to make them feel welcome. The club hosted a hospitality room for officials, coaches and their wives at the Topeka Invitational Basketball Tournament. Demand for their services brought a record 45 members to the club.

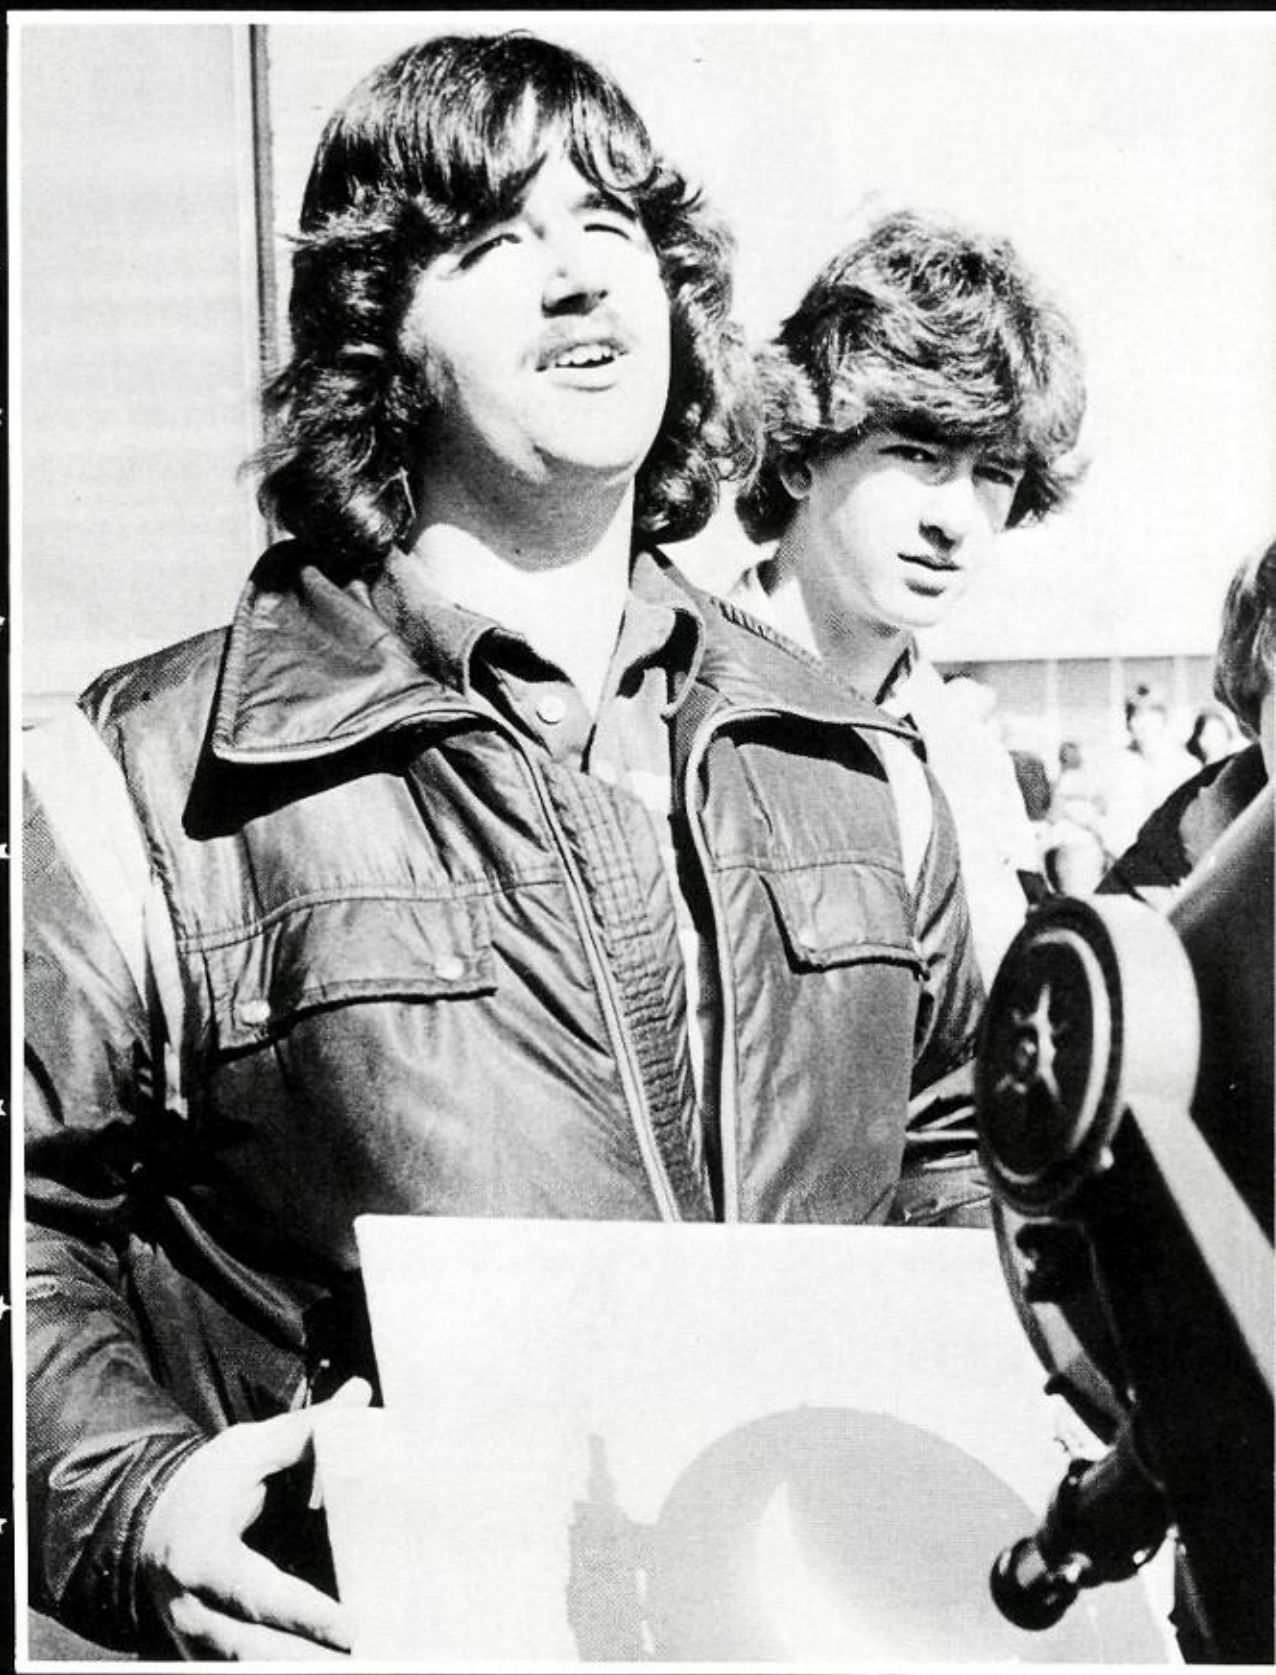
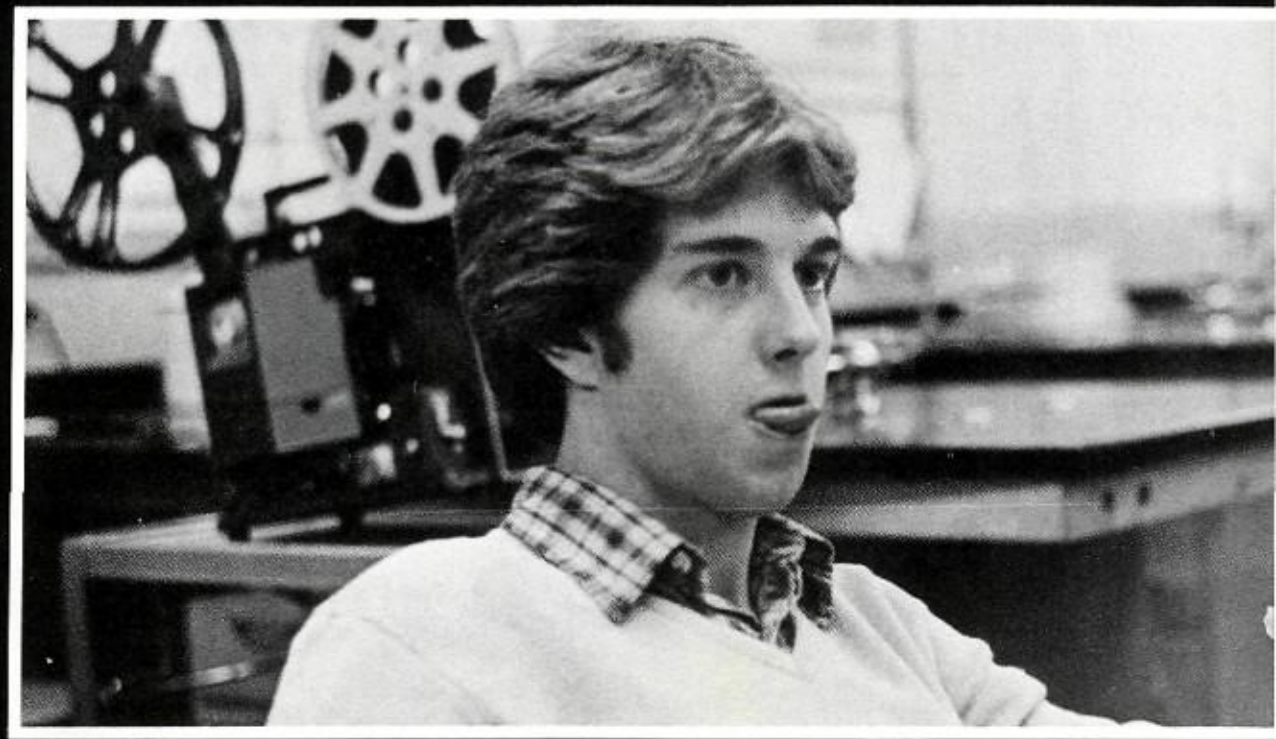
Dying breed

Clubs appear to be a dying breed. Once a group of more than 20 thriving organizations, the number has dwindled to fewer than 10. Some clubs began the year but were forced to stop because of little interest. One such club was Future Medical Careers Club, which in past years took many educational trips to medical facilities and heard knowledgeable speakers. An invitation went out from Mrs. Reeta Akins for membership in a new Stamp Club, but interest was lacking.

Students have become more concerned with earning their own money and, for a variety of reasons, have developed new interests, and club activities have become a less important part of school life. Most clubs represented on these pages have remained active and productive, but even some of these have found it difficult to retain continued interest.





Classes

Seniors "float" through parade

The super-great seniors of '79 had many fun activities planned throughout the year to keep them busy. Among them were entering a float in the Homecoming parade, a senior talent show, a dance to celebrate the end of the first semester, and Grad Night at Worlds of Fun, to name a few.

Keeping the Class of '79 on the ball were the class officers. The seniors elected Judy Werder, president; Debbie Hastings, vice-president; and Pam Miller, secretary-treasurer.

The Class of '80 got their show on the road in the spring of 1978 with the election of their class officers. To the presidency they elected Karen Gillogly. Vice-President was Jim Harder, and Amy Hamm was the secretary-treasurer.

The juniors had various activities and fund-raising events planned for the year. Besides decorating a float for the Homecoming parade, the Class of '80 ate heartily at a pizza supper and "came clean" with a car wash.

152 sophomores turned out to vote on Sept. 7 and 8 for their class officers. They elected Scott Swenson, President; Rueben Perez, Vice-President; and Todd Huntley, Secretary-Treasurer.

"We, as sophomores have no major responsibility other than raising money for next year's reps. We made approximately $250 on the sales of M&Ms. We hope to sponsor a couple of dances to make money and also some service projects in the community," stated Scott Swenson.

Chargers develop reputation as city grid powerhouse

Believing in themselves and Coach Frank Walton, the varsity football squad brought back some much needed respect and enthusiasm into the Topeka West football program, which has had a less than successful past.

Stunning nearly everyone, the enthused squad rolled over seven opponets, losing only twice, and finished just fractions of a point away from a playoff spot.

The Chargers developed a running attack to complement the fine passing game led by quarterback Brady Pryor, '79. This punch gave the team the best record in the city after having the worst record at 0-9 the season before.

"At the beginning of the year, I thought we would win a few games," Coach Walton said, "but the team believed in themselves and thought they could do it."

Squad gained experience

While the junior varsity and sophomore teams improved over last year they didn't reach the success of the varsity squad. Stopping the teams from attaining the glory experienced on the varsity level was their lack of experiences.

The Junior varsity squad was largely made-up of sophomores, who used this as a stepping stone to gain experience and confidence in themselves. The juniors used the chance to play as an aid to time-up their play and better themselves for varsity play.

Team captures city crown

Injuries and disappointing times kept the cross country team from repeating as state champions. The squad finished 6th. Bruce Noe, '80, and Kent Wallace, '79, finished 8th and 10th respectively to pace West.

The women also competed, with Sara Yeager, '80, finishing 8th and Julie Browning '81, coming in 13th.

"The difference between this year's and last year's teams was that everybody had their best times last year in the state meet. This wasn't true this year," said Coach Joe Schrag.

Even though the Chargers failed to win state, they won the city and regional meets. It was the eighth straight year the team has captured the city crown.

Women's Volleyball ends season with 9-12 record

While this year's volleyball team had strong leadership under three returning letterwomen, the future looks brighter with seven girls returning next year.

The young and relatively inexperienced squad finished the season with a 9-12 record. However, the team captured second in the city meet and finished third in the all new I-70 league.

Spirit, hard work and leadership by seniors were major factors in the season according to Coach Cindy Heath, in her seventh year of coaching at West.

"It was a young team with a lot of enthusiasm for volleyball," said Coach Heath.

Team unity adds spirit

Another winning season, including a team victory in the regionals, came to an abrupt halt for the lady Charger tennis team when it drew No. 1 seeded Shawnee Mission East as its first opponent in state competition. West lost all five opening round matches.

A dominant force in city tennis, the team lost its first city meet in eight years, losing to Topeka High, but continued its four-year string of first place finishes at the Wamego invitational.

Coach Bob Gladfelter, stressing team unity, spirit and enjoyment of the game, led the team to another winning season, the eighth in his eight years of coaching here.

Seniors lead swim team

Coach Ed Poort, with a spirited, hard working squad, had possibly the best swimming team he had ever coached. Several swimmers and divers made it into state competition. Randy Harris, '79, finished fifth in the 500-yard freestyle and sixth in the 200-yard freestyle. After a slow start, Jeff Handley, '79, bounced back and captured tenth place in state diving competition.

"I would consider the state meet a success," Coach Poort said. "One of the disappointments was that the relay teams didn't make it to the finals. One relay team was only .8 of a point away from qualifying. Most members of the team were seniors who worked hard and deserved to go to the finals."

Team ends as co-champions

The boy's basketball team had a fine season, ending the year with an 11-9 record. The team might have had a better record if not for some close ballgames. The basketball team also had a first for the school, taking the co-championship in the newly formed I-70 League. Coach Jerry Wright was optimistic about the team. "The team made steady progress and improvement throughout the season, and if not for a couple of poor games, we could have competed against anyone," he said.

The team had the fourth best won-lost record for the school and the best record in the last six years.

Teams prove impressive

The junior varsity and sophomore basketball teams put together impressive seasons, winning a total of 25 games and losing 9. The JV won 13 and lost 3, while the sophomores won 12 and lost 6.

In the sophomore tournament at Seaman High School, the team lost in the finals to Topeka High. Their tournament wins included a forfeit by Shawnee Heights. In the finals, both the Trojans and the Chargers employed a run-and-gun offense, with a hard, hustling full court press. Both teams played in the same fashion as the varsity, and players looked to the day when they would advance to the improving varsity squad.

Women prove competitive

The women's basketball team goals of first place in the league diminished toward the end of the season, but they placed second in the Class 6A state tournament at Wichita State University, substate, the new 170 League and the Shawnee Heights Invitational.

In state tournament competition, they beat Shawnee Mission South and favored Hutchinson before suffering a heart-breaking loss to Wichita Heights and winding up second in state. Carrie Wagaman, '79, and Brenda Soldani, '80, were named to the state All-Tournament Team. Wagaman was also named to the Capital-Journal All-State Team.

Light weights carried their squad to victory

In a rebuilding year, the wrestling team managed to qualify two for state, Greg Beelman, '79, and Darren Coker, '80. Although both were hit by bad breaks, they managed fourth and fifth place finishes, respectively, in state.

The young and inexperienced squad was led by the lighter weights. Helping next year will be the fact that they will lose only one member, Beelman, from this year's squad.

"We had many young, inexperienced wrestlers that should do well next year," Coach Mike Jamison said. "Most of the sophomores did a good job this year."

Determination aids squad

Continually improving, the men's gymnastics team capped a good season with a fifth place finish at state.

"Our main goal each year is to qualify the team for state, which we accomplished for the second straight year," said Coach Gregg Nielson.

With eight returning lettermen, the squad picked up its first 1st place trophy in over three years. In the city and regional the team finished second.

Along with added experience, the team used hard work, determination and a winning attitude to improve themselves, according to Coach Nielson.

Final goal is accomplished

With a respectable seventh place showing in the state meet, the women's gymnastics team polished off their final goal of the season. A first place finish in city and a successful season took care of the other goals.

First year Coach Cindy Medill took over a young and relatively inexperienced squad. The team was made up of only two seniors, one junior and six promising sophomores.

"The best competition in the state competed and our girls held their own," said Coach Medill.

Yell leaders new addition

New to West this year has been the addition of the yell leaders. This group of men aided the cheerleaders by helping in formations, leading student cheers, ringing the bell and assisting in pep assemblies.

Leading student cheering at athletic events was just one of the duties of the Topeka West cheerleaders. Behind the scenes they promoted spirit, pride and enthusiasm for the school. Organizing and performing in school pep assemblies was also a major responsibility of the cheerleaders.

The cheerleading squads combined to sell 360 white and purple cowboy hats to wave at the games.

Captains this year were Natalie Evanson for the varsity squad, Marty Young for the junior varsity and Chris Pierce headed the yell leaders.

"They are all excellent groups. They work hard and they participate as a unit," said Miss Beverly Bernardi, cheerleader sponsor.

RIGHT: The varsity cheerleaders are Julie Miller, Barbie Bridwell, Peggy Dobelbower, Natalie Evanson, Sunny Cleland, Candi Jones and Sarah Brass. Westsiders diligent crew

The precision of the drill team, witnessed at home football and basketball games, took time and dedication. Beginning last summer and continuing through the year, the team practiced diligently in first hour along with additional morning practices. The hard work paid big dividends in pride and enthusiasm.

The Westsiders worked under the guidance of Mrs. Susan Affolter, Captain Carol DeSelm and Co-Captain Sheri Ball.

Popcorn was the big money-maker as the team sold $600 worth to purchase cowboy hats.

" This is a very dedicated group who thoroughly enjoy working together," said Mrs. Affolter.

New Graduates

Deserve A New Kind Of Bank

Now that you've graduated, whether you're going to college or going to work ... you need to start thinking about things like banks. Fairlawn Plaza State Bank is the kind of bank you should think about when you're ready to open your checking or savings account ... or for any of the "Full Service" conveniences you will find. We are the fresh, young, friendly new kind of financial service in Topeka ... with a 24-hour money-machine, one-statement banking and "full service" lobby hours on Saturday from 9 'til noon. You're different now that you're out of school and so is Fairlawn Plaza State Bank so ... stop in and let us show you how easy your banking needs can be. Also we want the opportunity to congratulate you in person!

Eric,
Well, what can I say?
I'm so glad I got to know you - I have had so many good times with you. I hope we will have many more. 6th hour was really fun - it wouldn't have been the same without you. Stay as nice and good-lookin' as you are. Good luck next year and always!

Love ya lots,
Sheryl

Eric
I Know I'll see
you this summer
so I don't have to say c$ll
Me because I know you will. I
Wish you and sheryl the best of luck,
And I hope you stay the same old Fry-
Boy, because your in a class all by yourself.
Your friend "Always!"
Rick.

Eric -
It has been a lot! of fun meeting
ya + partin' with ya!
Stay sweet + fly!

Eric,
I'm glad I met you
this year, cause you're really a sweet + good lookin' guy! I still owe you something for your birthday.
Maybe I'll see ya this summer,
& you can give me a ride in that nice car!
Terri Brende
